A BRANCH OF ACA

The Kentucky Counseling Association is a state branch of the American Counseling Association, the world's largest organization for professional counselors.

The American Counseling Association (ACA) is a partnership of associations representing professional counselors whose mission is to enhance the quality of life in society by promoting the development of professional counselors, advancing the counseling profession, and using the profession and practice of counseling to promote respect for human dignity and diversity. Founded in 1952, the American Counseling Association is the world's largest private, not-for-profit organization devoted entirely to the advancement and growth of professional counselors and the profession of counseling. Representing more than 42,000 members, the American Counseling Association provides educational programs, publications, and annual conventions to expand professional knowledge and expertise; promote recognition of counselors to the public and the media; and represent members' interests before government bodies at the national and state levels.

Headquartered in Alexandria, VA, just outside Washington, DC, the American Counseling Association promotes public confidence and trust in the counseling profession so that professionals can assist their clients and students in dealing with the challenges life presents. The American Counseling Association serves professional counselors in the U.S. and in 50 other countries. In addition, the American Counseling Association is associated with a comprehensive network of 19 divisions and 56 branches. The divisions enhance professional identity and are organized around specific interest and practice areas. They provide professional strength and satisfy the diverse needs of the counseling community. The American Counseling Association also collaborates with several corporate and related organizations to enhance member services.
