The Governing Council subcommittee that had discussed the matter of provisional divisional membership reported that they were not presenting a motion but they did present a statement as follows: The principle of innovative membership promotion is respected; however, the proposal for a Divisional Provisional membership pilot test appears to create conceptual inconsistencies with the spirit of the AACD Collaboration Committee report. Therefore, we reaffirm the current AACD membership structure as set forth in the AACD Bylaws.

It was moved by Wilmarth and seconded by Williams that: The Bylaws of the American Association for Counseling and Development be amended by adding the following Subpart F to Article II, Section 1. Provisional Divisional Membership, as follows:

(1) Eligibility: Any person who meets the requirements for national division or organizational affiliate of AACD shall be eligible for membership.

(2) Application: Any person desiring to become a member of a national division or organizational affiliate shall make application and become a member of a national division or organizational affiliate upon payment of national division or organizational affiliate dues.

(4) Governing Council Determination: Divisional provisional members will not be counted in the formulation that determines Governing Council seats for regions and divisions.
